Wells Lectures Continue at WT; Service Tonight in Ad Building

"The Triumph of Christian Love Behind the Iron Curtain" will be the topic of a talk Wednesday at 8 p. m. by Charles A. Wells, editor and cartoonist who is delivering the annual Willson Lecture series at West Texas State College. The public is invited to his address in the Administration Building auditorium.

Two other addresses remain in Wells' series at WT at 10 a. m. Thursday and Friday. With the central theme of "The Power of Christian Love," Wells spoke on its application to the nuclear age and to race relations on Tuesday and Wednesday mornings. He will make its application to "the new capitalism" Thursday and to "the new social order" on Friday.

Several special programs at the various student centers at WT have been slated as students observe Religious Emphasis Week. Discussions Monday and Tuesday nights at the Baptist Student Center were led on religious freedom and "soul freedom" by C. J. Humphrey, Amarillo attorney, and the Rev. Glenn Normand, pastor of the Trinity Baptist Church of Amarillo.

An all-center program will be held at 6:30 p. m. Wednesday at the Baptist Student Center, when a panel discussion on "Understanding Every Man's Faith" will be held. Speakers will be Dr. Gustave Falk of Dallas, director of the American Jewish Community; Monsignor Paul Charcut, of Blessed Sacrament Church of Dallas; and Dr. Hayden Edwards, East District superintendent of the Fort Worth Methodist Church.

Morning watch hours will be held daily at 7:15 a. m. at the Methodist and Christian-Presbyterian centers. The groups will hold a joint discussion period Thursday at 7 p. m. at the Methodist center.

Little League Plans Meeting

A meeting of Little League fans and members will be held at 7:30 p. m. Thursday in the West Texas State fieldhouse, President O. W. Parker has announced.

Included in the order of business will be the election of officers and directors for the coming year, and the organization of a Babe Ruth League will be taken up.

The Babe Ruth League will have its ball park on land just south of the Little League park. The land for both the diamonds was loaned for use by the school board.

Anyone interested in organized baseball for youth is invited to attend the meeting, Parker said.

Heart Campaign Thursday Night

After two false starts, the Heart campaign will be conducted Thursday night, Campaign Chairman Riley Troth said this week.

The door-to-door canvass will be conducted from 7 to 9 p. m., with the Boy Scouts as collectors, he said.

Troth announced that the movie held for school children Feb. 22 gathered $70.50 for the Heart Fund.

Red Cross Drive Runs in March

The annual Red Cross fund drive will be conducted this month with a goal of $3000 for Randall County. John Hunter is county campaign chairman.

A house-to-house canvass will be made, Hunter said. Donations may also be mailed to the Red Cross, Randall County Chapter, Box 8, Canyon, or may be given to Levi Cole at the First National Bank.

The goal for Randall County has not been met for the past several years, according to Roland Black, secretary-treasurer. He said the Red Cross fund in the county is quite low at the present time.

Borquez Rites Said Tuesday

Graveside rites in memory of Hilario Borquez were conducted Tuesday morning in Dreamland Cemetery with the Rev. Leo Lavoie, pastor of St. Ann's Catholic Church, officiating.

Burial was under direction of Warren-LaGrone Funeral Chapel. Rosary was said at the Borquez home here Monday night by Father Lavoie.

Mr. Borquez, 76, died Sunday in Neblett Hospital. He had lived in Canyon for 30 years. Born Jan. 4, 1882, in Saint Lorenco, N. M., he was a member of St. Ann's Church.

Survivors include one son, Joe Borquez of Canyon, two sisters and three brothers.

Commission Gives Official Conract

The contract for 1.456 miles of construction on Fourth Avenue from 16th Street to the east city limits was awarded to Gilvin-Terrill, Inc., of Amarillo, the State Highway Commission announced last week.

The company submitted a low bid of $112,991.95 on the project. The construction is expected to take 120 working days, according to Chili Smith, district engineer.

W. V. York, resident engineer here, will be in charge of the project while it is under construction. The work started Monday morning.

Mrs. Miller Wins Iron on Program

Mrs. Henry F. Miller, Route 2 of Canyon, was winner of a steam iron last week on an Amarillo radio program. Her number was called on the KGNC "Woman's Club" program and she answered the question asked of her to win the iron.

Mrs. Miller requested membership in the club Friday, received the card Tuesday and was called Thursday.

"They asked me to give the names of two of the three personalities on an earlier program," she said. "I was really thrilled as this was the first time I had won anything."

Invite Public To See School

The Canyon public schools are celebrating Public School Week in Texas this week with a program of visitation by patrons of the school.

The administration and faculty of the schools have planned no special programs for entertainment, but wish the patrons of the district to see how classes are operated on a daily basis.

Any parent or interested citizen who desires may eat in the cafeterias at the elementary school or the junior and senior high, and are particularly invited to visit classrooms during the day, Supt. Joe Gibson said.

Building Takes February Jump

Construction in Canyon took a jump in February with six permits issued for a total of $52,100. The January building permit list included only two permits for a total of $1000. Total for 1958 is $53,100.

Included in the February permits were three new residences, two on Twelfth Avenue and one in Pioneer Estates. The total for new residences was $46,000.

Permits issued in February included:

Bob Clark, 2407 Tenth Avenue, addition to residence, $3600, Feb. 4.

James M. White, 2506 Twelfth Avenue, residence, $17,000, Feb. 5.

E. W. Whitten, Block 5, Heller Addition, remodel residence $1000, Feb. 20.

J. C. Newton, 410 Foster Lane, residence, $12,000, Feb. 26.

Radio Appliance, 411 16th Street, remodel store, $1500, Feb. 27.

Gene McGlasson, 2406 Twelfth Avenue, residence, $17,000, Feb. 27.

150 Delegates at VFW Convention

Some 150 delegates registered for the annual convention of District 13, VFW, held in Canyon Saturday and Sunday. Post 5681, the Canyon post, was host to the meeting.

Bill Brundige, post commander, opened the joint meeting of the VFW and Ladies Auxiliary Sunday morning. County Judge Roy Joe Stevens introduced the guest speaker, J. W. (Bill) Cole of Abilene, past state commander.

Cole spoke on veterans benefits and rights.

Following lunch, the meeting was split with the Ladies Auxiliary meeting in the American Legion Hall and the VFW meeting at the VFW hall.

Mae Brown of Tulia, president of the Ladies Auxiliary, was speaker for the women's meeting.

This was the first convention that the VFW in Canyon has been the host post.

"We would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone who helped put on the convention," Brundige said. "And we would especially like to thank the women who helped serve the luncheon."

Baker Services Held in Memphis

Funeral rites for R. P. Baker, brother of Mrs. Alice Fogerty of Canyon, were conducted Saturday afternoon in Memphis by the Rev. V. F. Love of Slaton and the Rev. C. D. Martindale of Memphis.

Burial was in the Memphis Fairview Cemetery.

Mr. Baker, 62, died Thursday in Waco. He had lived in Hall County for 27 years before moving to Fort Worth about 10 years ago.

In addition to his sister here, survivors include his wife, a son, a brother, three other sisters and two grandchildren.

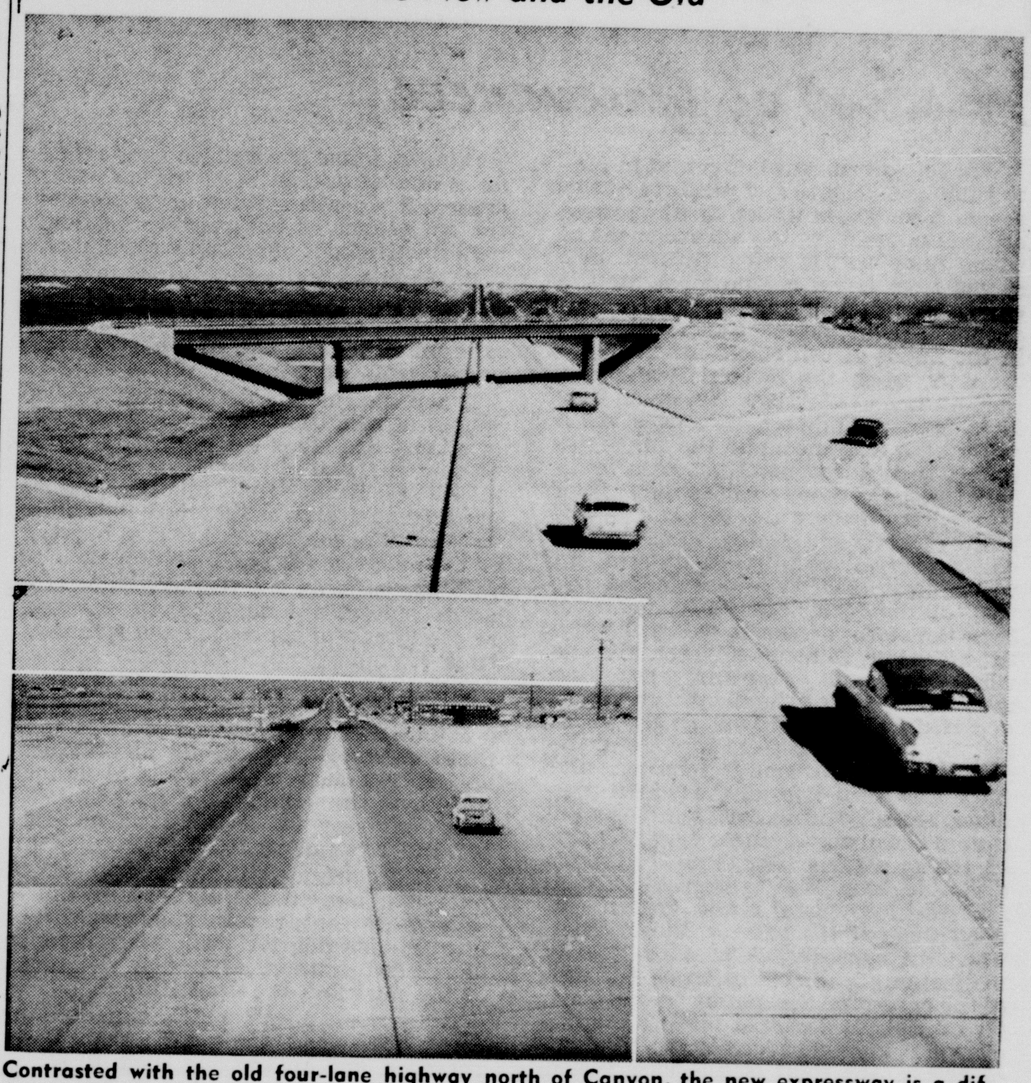
Girl Scouts To Sell Cookies in Canyon

Five troops of Girl Scouts will be calling at the homes of Canyonites this week to sell Girl Scout cookies. Proceeds will go toward fixing up the Girl Scout Hut. Anyone who is not contacted may call Mrs. R. P. Jarrett to place an order.

Revival Center Plans Nightly Services Soon

A revival featuring Bob Mickelson, formerly of Canyon, and Olin R. Gann, formerly of Amarillo, will be held at the Revival Center, 501 Sixth Avenue, soon. Services will be held nightly at 7:30 p. m., except Saturday.

The New and the Old



Contrasted with the old four-lane highway north of Canyon, the new expressway is a different affair altogether. These pictures were taken from the center of the railroad underpass in June, 1956, and just after the expressway was opened last week. When motorists learn the pattern of traffic, the new highway should make driving safer and more enjoyable.

Whealy Resigns as Chemistry Head; Compton Is Replacement

Dr. Roger D. Whealy, professor and head of the chemistry department at West Texas State College, has resigned to accept a position as professor of chemistry at Texas A&M College. He will join the A&M staff in September.

Dr. James P. Cornette, president of WT, has announced that Dr. W. D. Compton, who came to West Texas State in 1955, will succeed Dr. Whealy as head of the department.

Dr. Whealy came to WT in 1947 as assistant professor of chemistry and was named to head the department in 1953 after earning his Ph.D. at the University of Colorado. He holds his B.S. degree from Eastern Normal School in South Dakota, and M.S. degrees from the University of Colorado and University of Oregon.

ROGER D. WHEALY

At A&M, Dr. Whealy will teach undergraduate and graduate courses in analytical chemistry and will have "time and facilities for research."

Through research projects at WT, Dr. Whealy and a former student, Sam O. Colgate of Amarillo, have published a number of articles in such journals as "Analytical Chemistry" and "Journal of Chemical Education."

Listed in "Who's Who in America" and "American Men of Science," Dr. Whealy is chairman of the Panhandle-Plains section of the American Chemical Society. He is a member of Phi Lambda Upsilon, national honorary chemistry fraternity, and the American Association of University Professors.

Dr. Whealy, who has coached WT tennis teams, has been a member of the college's athletic committee, and its premedical advisory and scholarships committees.

Dr. Compton came to WT as associate professor of chemistry from the University of Texas, where he earned his Ph.D. degree. He served as a teaching fellow there and held the Humble Oil and Refining Company fellowship in organic chemistry.

The new department head is a graduate of North Texas State College, where he earned both the B.S. and M.S. degrees. He was formerly an instructor in chemistry at Arlington State College.

Dr. Compton is president of the WT chapter of the American Association of University Professors, and is a member of the American Chemical Society.

Services Monday For Mrs. Evans

Funeral services for Mrs. Lovie Louise Evans, mother of Jimmie Evans of Canyon, were conducted Monday in Childress by the Rev. Rolio Davidson, pastor of the First Methodist Church, and the Rev. Joe Allen, pastor of the First Baptist Church.

Burial was in the Chillicothe Cemetery.

Mrs. Evans, 74, died Sunday in Childress. She was born Oct. 12, 1883, in Arkansas, and moved to Childress in 1930 from Chillicothe.

In addition to her son here, survivors include another son and three daughters.

City Secretary Resigns

Andrew Boggs, city secretary in Canyon since June, 1956, has announced his resignation to become tax assessor-collector for the City of Odessa.

Boggs' resignation will become effective on April 1, when he will assume his new duties. He will be filling the office of a man who was promoted by Odessa to become Director of Finance, a newly-created office.

No replacement for Boggs has been found, Mayor Hosea Foster said. The city commission will meet Monday night in its regular monthly meeting, and will interview any candidates at that time. Foster said the commission will attempt to hire a new secretary before Boggs leaves so that he can work with Boggs.

He said that any new city secretary will be hired with the cooperation of the candidates for the city offices in the election to be held April 1. Only three candidates filed for the offices, Charles Donnell for mayor, and John P. Taylor and Dr. Lowell Harrison for commissioners.

"The decision to leave was hard," Boggs said. "We were perfectly happy here, but the opportunity was too great to pass up."

Boggs said Odessa has grown tremendously, with a population of 3958 in 1930 and an estimated population of 78,000 this year.

He said he and his family had not decided whether to move now or wait until the end of school. The Boggs have one son, Gregory, a first-grader.

Boggs came to Canyon from Kress, where he had been school tax assessor-collector. He replaced Dudley Bayne, who went from Canyon to Hereford as city manager.

Ribbon Cutter

Chamber of Commerce President Clarence Eugene Thompson cut the first ribbon to open the expressway last week. After he cut the ribbon, a motorcade led by Sheriff L. S. Johnston toured the new highway. Later, a photographer from the Amarillo newspapers showed up and wanted a picture, so Mayor Hosea Foster and Sheriff Johnston cut another ribbon for him.

Regents Approve Plans for 2 WT Buildings

Bids for the construction of two classroom units at West Texas State College will be opened April 24, and the contracts will be awarded by the Board of Regents at the May 16 meeting in Austin, President James P. Cornette has announced.

The two units, a two-story addition to the science building and a new fine-arts building, are expected to cost in excess of $1 million. The money for the construction will come from the Constitutional Amendment Fund, which transfers money from the Confederate Veterans pension fund to a fund for construction of college buildings.

Permission for advertising for bids was granted Dr. Cornette by the Board of Regents at a meeting in San Marcos Saturday.

The Board of Regents also approved Robert E. Hucker, Amarillo architect, to supply plans for the new football stadium. Macon O. Carder supplied plans for the fine arts building and the science addition.

The two-story addition to the science building will be almost as large as the present building, and will be located on the north side of the present facility. It is expected that the new portion will house the biology department, leaving more room in the older portion for geology, physics and chemistry.

On the first floor of the addition will be five laboratories, five offices, a greenhouse and storage facilities. The second floor will have six classrooms and four offices. The entire new portion will match the old building's exterior finish.

The fine arts building will be located on the block between Stafford Hall and the fieldhouse, and will face the highway. It will be of contemporary design, similar to the two newest dormitories on the campus.

The fine arts building will house the music, art and speech departments and will include 82,438 square feet. It will be air conditioned with multiple controls in separate parts of the building.

The music department will have the first and second floors on the south side of the building. Music facilities will include classrooms, offices, practice rooms, studios, band and choir rehearsal rooms and instrument storage rooms.

The choir room will include facilities for recitals and will be equipped with risers for auditorium seating.

The art department will be located on the north side of the building on the second floor. It will have classrooms, offices, studios and laboratories. Facilities for craftwork will be in a small basement.

The speech department will be housed on the north side on the first floor and will have four classrooms, two of which can be combined for laboratory rehearsals and intimate theater productions. The speech department section will also have a speech and hearing clinic, television and radio control rooms and studios where student groups can produce programs over remote control facilities of commercial stations, recording rooms and listening cubicles.

A theater will be included in the building for plays, concerts and operas. It will be located in the center of the building with seating facilities for 300 persons, and will have the latest lighting and staging equipment.

A foyer will be located between the hall and the theater. A large lounge for use of students and faculty will be located adjacent to the auditorium.

Construction is expected to begin this summer, and the building should be ready for use by the fall term of 1959.

A List of Grievances

When a government has ceased to protect the lives, liberty and property of the people from whom its legitimate powers are derived, and for the advancement of whose happiness it was instituted, and so far from being a guarantee for the enjoyment of their inestimable and inalienable rights, becomes an instrument in the hands of evil rulers for their oppression; when the Federal Republican Constitution of their country, which they have sworn to support, no longer has a substantial existence, and the whole nature of their government has been forcibly changed without their consent, from a restricted Federative Republic, composed of sovereign states, to a consolidated central military despotism, in which every interest is disregarded but that of the army and the priesthood, both the eternal enemies of civil liberty, the ever-ready minions of power, and the usual instrument of tyrants; when, long after the spirit of the Constitution has departed, moderation is at length so far lost by those in power, that even the semblance of freedom is removed, and the forms themselves of the constitution discontinued; and so far from their petitions and remonstrances being regarded, the agents who bear them are thrown into dungeons and mercenary armies sent forth to force a new government upon them at the point of the bayonet; when, in consequence of such acts of malfeasance and abdication on the part of the government, anarchy prevails, and civil society is dissolved into its original elements in such a crisis, the first law of nature, the right of self-preservation, the inherent and inalienable right of the people to appeal to first principles, and take their political affairs into their own hands in extreme cases, enjoins it as a right toward themselves, and a sacred obligation to their posterity, to abolish such government, and create another in its stead, calculated to rescue them from impending dangers, and to secure their future welfare and happiness.

Nations, as well as individuals, are amenable for their acts to the public opinion of mankind. A statement of a part of our grievances is therefore submitted to an impartial world, in justification of the hazardous but unavoidable step now taken, of severing our political connection with the Mexican people, and assuming an independent attitude among the nations of the world.

The Mexican Government, by its colonization laws, invited and induced the Anglo-American population of Texas to colonize its wilderness, under the pledged faith of a written Constitution, that they should continue to enjoy that constitutional liberty and republican government to which they had been habituated in the land of their birth, the United States of America. In this expectation they have been cruelly disappointed, inasmuch as the Mexican nation has acquiesced in the late changes made in the government by Gen. Antonio Lopez de Santa Anna, who, having overturned the Constitution of his country, now offers us the cruel alternative, either to abandon our homes, acquired by so many privations, or submit to the most intolerable of all tyranny, the combined despotism of the sword and the priesthood.

It has sacrificed our welfare to the State of Coahuila, by which our interests have been continually depressed, through a jealous and partial course of legislation, carried on at a far-distant seat of government, by a hostile majority, in an unknown tongue; and this, too, notwithstanding we have petitioned in the humblest terms for the establishment of a separate state government, and have, in accordance with the provisions of the tution, which was without just cause, National Constitution, presented to the General Congress, a Republican Constiontemptuously rejected.

It incarcerated in a dungeon, for a long time, one of our citizens, for no other cause but a zealous endeavor to procure the acceptance of our constitution and the establishment of a state government.

It has failed and refused to secure, on a firm basis, the right of trial by jury, that palladium of civil liberty and only safe guarantee for the life, liberty and property of the citizen.

It has failed to establish any public system of education, although possessed of almost boundless resources (the public domain), and although it is an axiom in political science that, unless a people are educated and enlightened it is idle to expect the continuance of civil liberty, or the capacity for self-government.

It has suffered the military commandants stationed among us to exercise arbitrary acts of oppression and tyranny, thus trampling upon the most sacred rights of the citizen, and rendering the military superior to the civil power.

It has dissolved by force of arms the State Congress of Coahuila and Texas, and obliged our representatives to fly for their lives from the seat of government, thus depriving us of the fundamental political right of representation.

It has demanded the surrender of a number of our citizens, and ordered military detachments to seize and carry them into the interior for trial, in contempt of the civil authorities, and in defiance of the laws and the Constitution.

It has made piratical attacks upon our commerce by commissioning foreign desperadoes, and authorizing them to seize our vessels and convey the property of our citizens to far-distant ports for confiscation.

It denies us the right of worshiping the Almighty according to the dictates of our consciences, by the support of a national religion calculated to promote the temporal interests of its human functionaries rather than the glory of the true and living God.

It has demanded us to deliver up our arms, which are essential to our defense, the rightful property of free men, and formidable only to tyrannical governments.

It has invaded our country, both by sea and by land, with intent to lay waste to our territory, and drive us from our homes; and has now a large mercenary army advancing to carry on against us a war of extermination.

It has, through its emissaries, incited the merciless savage, with the tomahawk and scalping knife, to massacre the inhabitants of our defenseless frontiers.

It hath been, during the whole time of our connection with it, the contemptible sport and victim of successive military revolutions, and hath continually exhibited every characteristic of a weak, corrupt and tyrannical government.

These and other grievances were patiently borne by the people of Texas, until they reached that point at which forbearance ceases to be a virtue. We then took up arms in defense of the National Constitution. We appealed to our Mexican bretheren for assistance. Our appeal has been made in vain; though months have elapsed, no sympathetic response has yet been heard from the interior. We are, therefore, forced to the melancholy conclusion that the Mexican people have acquiesced in the destruction of their liberty, and the substitution therefor of a military government—that they are unfit to be free, and incapable of self-government.

The necessity of self preservation, therefore, now decrees our eternal political separation.

We, therefore, the delegates, with plenary powers, of the people of Texas, in solemn convention assembled, appealing to a candid world for the necessities of our condition, do hereby resolve and declare that our political connection with the Mexican nation has forever ended, and that the people of Texas do now constitute a free, sovereign and indepent Republic, and are fully invested with all the rights and attributes which properly belong to independent nations; and, conscious of the rectitude of our intentions, we fearlessly and confidently commit the issue to the decision of the Supreme Arbiter of the destinies of nations.

The preceding was signed by 59 Texans on March 2, 1836, at Washington-on-the-Brazos. It was the cause for all the hullabaloo that didn't happen Sunday, Texas Independence Day. At the same time the instrument was written and signed, the fight at the Alamo was waxing heavy—with the ultimate downfall of the mission-fort coming four days later.

The instrument is one of the reasons why Texans feel different about their home state. It is one of the things we can feel proud about.

Incidental Musings

It appears from reading the daily papers that the Russians would like to move that summit conference about halfway down the mountain.

We're not too well versed in the field of high finance, and we're too young to remember the beginning of the depression of the 1930's, so we can't quite figure out how the cost of living can be rising at the same time that lower employment is cutting down on the amount of money that can be spent. It seems to us like it's a reversal of the law of supply and demand—demand is off so the supply is larger, making prices go up. We had always thought it worked the other way —demand is off, the supply is larger and the prices go down.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

By BOYCE HOUSE

Let me tell you about the most unusual educational institution Texas has ever known.

You probably never heard of it; it was known as the Thurber Training School.

For that matter, you may not even have heard of Thurber. Thurber around 1900 and for nearly 20 years thereafter was a coal mining town, some 16 miles east of Ranger. At one time, it was said to have been the largest town between Fort Worth and El Paso. You can see the remnants as you glide along Highway 80 — a smokestack and a few empty brick buildings, a filling station and two or three houses which are occupied.

The Thurber Training School — as you have probably figured out — was at Thurber. And it came about in this way:

A number of young men employed in the office of the Texas Pacific Coal Company wanted to play football.

"But," somebody objected, "you can't just form a team. The only opponents you can find are the elevens of high schools and colleges and they wouldn't play anybody except another high school or college."

"All right," said another of the ambitious athletes, "we'll start a school."

So they organized Thurber Training School — an institution without buildings, classes, campus, teachers, books, courses of study or alumni.

In fact, the only tangible evidence that there was such an institution was the stationery, "Thurber Training School," on which letters inviting games were written.

A schedule was lined up readily. (The coach played fullback). All the contests were played away from home. The Thurber town band performed and a pep squad was organized, the members being the young ladies who worked in the company offices. They even had a school song.

If some educator remarked, "I don't believe I ever heard of your institution," a "student" would say, "Oh, it emphasizes practical, rather than academic training" — and change the subject in a hurry.

Half the gate receipts went to each school — and Thurber Training School's half was divided among the players.

By the end of the season, the athletes were pretty well battered and the project was not revived next fall.

Such is the brief history of the Thurber Training School, Texas' most unusual educational institution, which was not exactly a scrap of paper but was just pieces of stationery — and a football club.

Lions Club Sets Broom Sale Date

The Canyon Lions Club will once again have its Broom Sale for the Lighthouse for the Blind in Texas, according to Rex Reeves, president of the club. The date has been set for Monday, March 17, he said.

"The project met with considerable success in Canyon the first time the club conducted the sale, and it is hoped that the housewives will again take advantage of the sale," Reeves said.

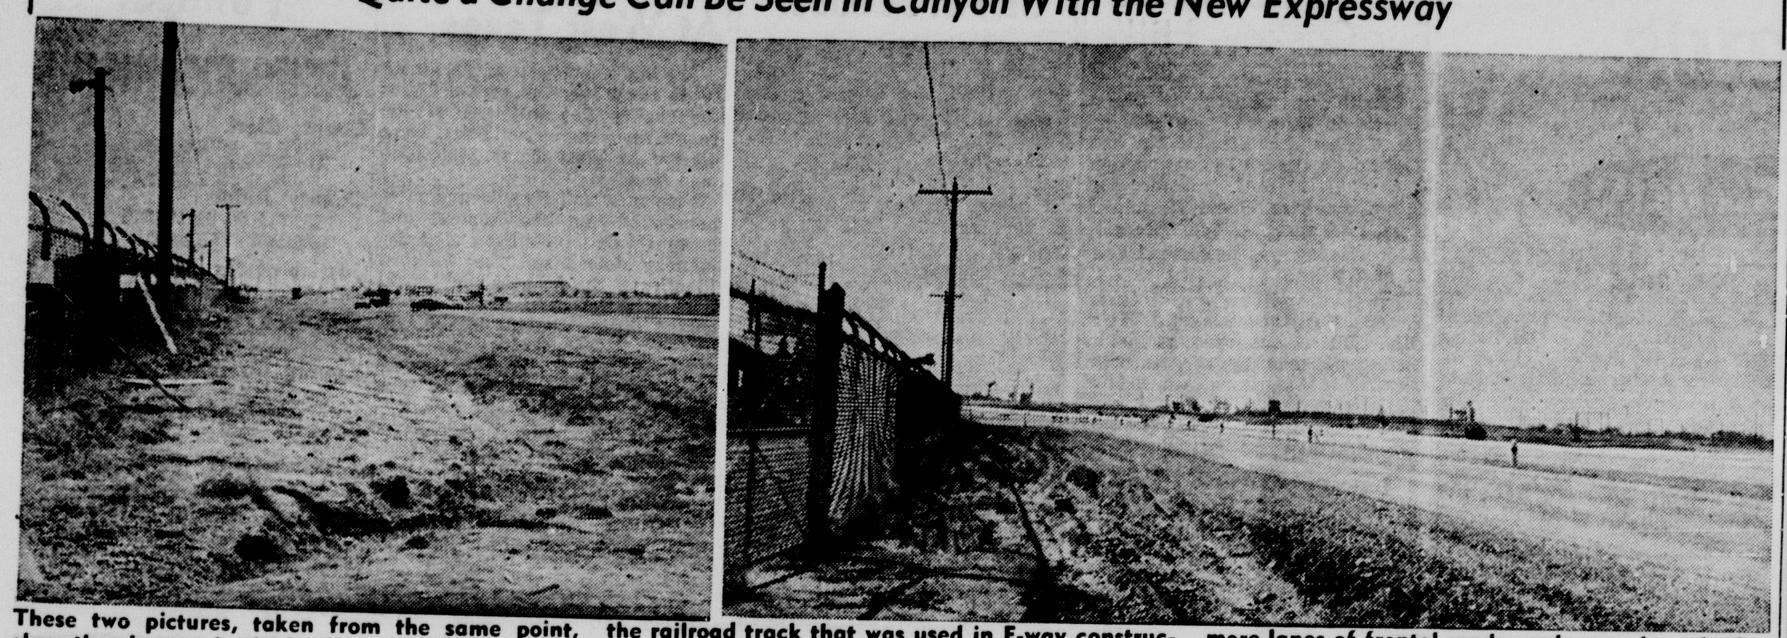
Quite a Change Can Be Seen in Canyon With the New Expressway



These two pictures, taken from the same point, show the changes in the landscape in Canyon. The old picture was taken in June, 1956, and shows the old four-lane highway, the huge pile of dirt near the railroad track that was used in E-way construction and other features. Now most of them are gone and replaced by new things—three over-under passes, four wide lanes of main highway and four more lanes of frontal roads, and a number of other features. Construction was started just before Christmas, 1956, and completed the last week in February, 1958.

Canyonite Leads Team to Victory

Martha McBroom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack McBroom, led Heidelberg's Det B team to a 43-33 victory over the Ramstein Ramjeans in the finals of the European USAREUR USAFE WAC/WAF basketball championships in Germany recently.

Miss McBroom sank 24 points to lead the winners to victory in the second game of the day against the Ramjeans. Heidelberg lost the first game to the Ramjeans 39-27. The Ramjeans had lost earlier in the double elimination tournament to Heidelberg. Miss McBroom's scoring total for the tournament was 73 points.

"Well," said the clerk, "how about some book-ends?"

"Splendid!" was the enthusiastic reply. "Give me half a dozen of your best ends—that's usually the only part she reads!"

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

By VERN SANFORD

In this busy world where everyone is rushing about in such a hurry you'd think that all our pistol and rifle hulls would come put up in boxes ready to shoot. After all, mama buys her bread already mixed, her chicken pies cooked, frozen and ready for the oven.

Not so with shooters, however. There still are many who prefer to handload their own fodder. In fact there were more than 5,000,000 jacketed projectiles sold for rifles in Texas in 1957. Hard to believe, isn't it?

These are some figures put together by George E. Fairchild, who bothers about such things for the Stith Scope Mount people in San Antonio. His firm alone sold more than a million of these bullets. Of course some of the shooters even cast their own.

The prime reason for reloading seems to be in the economy. Next is accuracy, which really might be first in the long run.

On the basis of economy a box of 20 factory loaded 30-60 hulls sells for $4.55 retail. This is almost 23c each. Of course, if you are a deer hunter and just use one shot a year to get your venison, then that isn't expensive. But if you do a lot of shooting between season, at paper targets, rocks on the hill or at silhouettes, then it gets expensive. A breakdown shows that the actual cost of components of a reloaded 30-60 shell is around ¾c each.

Handloading equipment now has been perfected to assure the utmost safety in reloads. And with these custom loads you can get accuracy that is almost impossible with factory loads.

Hand loading is practical in all but rimfire ammunition. You can reload your old brass for either rifle, pistol or shotgun.

Savage Has New 110

While on the subject of shooting, be sure and take a look at that new Savage 110 when it hits the market. It's America's new high-power rifle. We've just had a chance to examine one of them thoroughly. It is a light weight, trim appearing gun, with an impressive stock line. The gun we saw was a 30-06. It also will be chambered for 270 and 243 at a later date.

The Savage 110 with a 4 power Bear Cub scope and Stith Dovetail mounts, weighs only 7½ pounds. It will retail for just a little over $100.

One of the most interesting features of the gun is the ease with which it can be stripped. A coin slot in the bolt head makes it possible to take down the entire bolt in a matter of seconds. And most interesting to some 11 per cent of our shooters, is that very shortly it will come out as a left-handed model, too, the first commercial left-handed bolt action gun.

Foxy New Runabout Readied

Boaters were given a new thrill at the New York National Motor Boat show last month when Evinrude unveiled its "station wagon" outboard, built at a cost of $18,500. It is a custom-built 21-footer that can be changed from utility-type runabout to a day cruiser, by telescoping the cabin top.

The boat, with rising and falling electrically operated seats, will sleep four. It comes equipped with a radio, built-in refrigerator, two burner galley stove, folding table and three aircraft-type thermos beverage containers. Two 20-gallon fuel tanks also are built in. Evinrude's new four-cylinder 50 hp V motor supplies the power.

Watch for Fisherman's Digest

A new book for fishermen is coming out in March. It is to be The Fisherman's Digest, edited by Tom McNally, outdoor editor of the Chicago Tribune. The first edition will contain 256 pages and more than 200 photos. Russell Tinsley, outdoor editor of the Austin American-Statesman, is author of one of the scheduled pieces.

The new book also will give complete instructions for "spoon-plugging" for bass, a new system of catching more and bigger bass. The Fisherman's Digest is a companion publication of Gun Digest, which is issued annually.

Fishing Prospects Bright

There is good news in the announcement of the Texas Game & Fish Commission that fish hatchery production is getting underway with an improved program this spring. Last year the state produced and delivered more than 14,000,000 fish. This year, barring the unforeseen, the production will be much greater.

Most of the applications for these fish will come from the owners of farm and ranch tanks, filled by the 1957 rains for the first time.

Unfortunately many more fish will be asked for by people who really don't need them. If you have any idea about making application for fish, discuss the need first with your local fisheries biologist. Then take his word for it. Believe it or not, it will be awfully easy this year to overstock an impoundment. That makes fishing worse, not better.

There was a terrific spawn in every lake in Texas in 1957. Those lakes right now are alive with plenty of last year's production that have already reached keeper size. We've caught those bass, now from 10 to 12 inches long. In another month or two they'll really be good fighters. With another good natural spawn this spring, don't worry about the big lakes running out of fish. Just get out there and feed 'em what they like.

Big Firms Consolidate

Several months ago True Temper, Montague and Ocean City were combined into the American Tackle Co. Now the company has announced publication of its 1958 catalog, which should be most interesting.

This new 28-page book describes 161 fishing rods, 62 reels and a full line of other tackle. Prices in the book range from a 65c lure to a $225 big game rod.

Latest product is a new Tru-Spin reel, built for fresh or light salt water fishing. It can be operated either right or left handed. Its features include crosswind, oscillating spool, built in click, bronze bearings and nylon bushings. It has a 3½ gear ratio and weighs 12 ounces. Should be some reel.

Umbarger 4-H Club Elects Two Officers

The second meeting of the Umbarger Girls 4-H Club was held in the home of Albert Fischbacher Friday, Feb. 28. Eleven members and seven mothers were present.

Mrs. Mona K. Hildreth, home demonstration agent, showed the girls and women present the fine points of biscuit baking.

Pies, made for the meeting by a few of the girls, were sampled and discussed prior to the business meeting.

In the business session, President Virginia Friemel called for the election of a treasurer and reporter. Marie Koch became the treasurer and Deann Stocker is reporter. Committees for finance, program and recreation were selected. The meeting adjourned and Mrs. Fischbacher served cocoa and cake.

NEWS LETTER

FROM CONGRESSMAN WALTER ROGERS OF THE 18TH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

The Weather in Washington

Snow and zero temperatures kept the nation's capital virtually paralyzed all last week. It was the first time I had seen the Potomac River completely frozen over. Mother Nature dumped 12 inches of snow and then pushed the temperature down to zero.

The result was utter confusion, insofar as traffic was concerned, until people realized they could not make their cars go. They were left by the roadside, many in the middle of the street, and quite a few in the ditch.

About 3000 people were stranded at a horse race track about 20 miles over in Maryland. The snow came so suddenly, they were trapped before they realized what had happened. There were a large number of traffic accidents and quite a few deaths and injuries.

The stock of automobile tire chains and snow shovels dwindled to nothing the first afternoon. I was a little disturbed about not being able to get tire chains, but didn't worry too much about a snow shovel. I had been reading many reports about people having heart attacks from shoveling snow, so this was a good excuse not to do too much work on the sidewalks and driveway.

Word went out over the radio and television that, in view of the condition of the streets and the weather, only essential government employees would be required to report for duty. One columnist, who has a rather sharp pen, investigated to find out who came to work.

He discovered that the President was not in the White House and several Cabinet officers were missing. However, the Secretary of State flew back in from some foreign country and was on duty. After checking in several of the government buildings, he finally concluded that about the only ones who considered themselves essential were the elevator operators and the janitors.

I am proud to say that our office was fully staffed and operating during the entire time. It just goes to show that a little snow never bothered anyone from the Panhandle of Texas. This was also proven by the fact that right in the midst of the snow storm quite a contingent of Panhandlites descended on the nation's capital.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hill Sr., and their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Durkin, got in just before the storm hit. We then had a visit from Bruce Campbell of Pampa and William R. Formby of Amarillo. Lt. J. W. Orr, son of Robert W. Orr of Pampa, was also in the office just prior to the snow storm.

They were followed by the Mayor of Amarillo, John Armstrong; a former Mayor of Amarillo, Gene Klein, and another former Mayor of Amarillo, Bud Curtis. Then came Alvin Hill of the Hill Truck Lines and Jay Taylor of Amarillo. While we were visiting with the latter group, the telephone rang and it was Dick Hughes from Pampa. Then the following day, in came R. G. Peeler from over at Hereford and Earl Cole from the same city. Mayor Armstrong brought along Mrs. Armstrong; Jay Taylor brought along Mrs. Taylor, and Mrs. Peeler accompanied Mr. Peeler.

Clayton Heare called from the Airport, but we didn't get a chance to see him as he had to catch a plane. Rev. Eugene Slater, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Amarillo, was also in town attending a conclave.

Constitutional Amendment

One item that keeps cropping up in the news around Washington is the continuing attempt to create a means by which a living President could be succeeded by a Vice President because of disability. The Attorney General recently testified in behalf of a Constitutional amendment which would authorize a President to declare in writing his disability to discharge the duties of his office and thereby permit the Vice President to take over as Acting President.

If the President would not declare himself unable to serve, then the Vice President, with the consent of a majority of the Cabinet, could declare the President disabled and take over as Acting President. This is known as the Administration Plan, and it also provides for the President to take back the powers of his office whenever he declares in writing he is able.

Provision is also made to cover a situation where the President and Vice President disagree on the President's ability to perform his duties. It is provided that in such a situation, the question would be turned over to the Congress for decision under procedures followed in impeachment proceedings.

This proposal is in keeping with the philosophy expounded by a former Attorney General. The same Attorney General who took the position that a Vice President now has the Constitutional authority to decide when the President is disabled and to step in temporarily as Acting President.

A recent news story identified the present Attorney General as following this same philosophy. In my opinion, it is a very dangerous philosophy and one that could constitute the most serious threat to our form of government since it was founded. These proposals have appeared to me to be the creatures of the mind of a small but willful group of men bent on gaining power.

The subtle manner in which they have been presented to the people in the past few weeks indicates to me that it will not be long before a propaganda campaign will be loosed in an effort to sell this bill of goods to the American people. It is my hope and prayer that the people will not be misled by such advertising campaign, but will weigh the matter with great care and eventually strike down any attempt to alter the Constitution regarding this subject matter.

Our country has grown strong under a form of government that has allowed man to make the greatest advances in civilization in the shortest period of time in the history of the world. Our experiences of the past have not required such drastic action concerning the highest office in this land as is proposed in this Constitutional amendment.

Should the time ever come that the physical condition of a President should require some affirmative action to replace him, the power to exercise such action should remain with the people through their duly elected Representatives and should not be handed over to a small group of men appointed by the President.

It should also be remembered that Congress has the authority at the present time to act in whatever emergency might arise. If this proposed succession amendment should be adopted as a part of the Constitution, it would be almost impossible to repeal.

Once a group took over the reins of this government under the cloak of authority created by such a Constitutional amendment, it would be a long time before they could be divested of such power.

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

Money is making the biggest news in Austin at the moment.

Discussion swirls around such topics as campaign funds, unemployment, recession, taxation, receiverships and credit insurance rates—all pocket-prodding issues.

Gov. Price Daniel publicly deplored the money-raising efforts of Texas' Republican National Committeeman H. J. (Jack) Porter. Porter staged a $100-a-plate dinner in Houston to raise money for Republican congressional campaigns. His widely publicized letter asking contributions pointed out the need to gain support for the natural gas bill now before Congress.

A hard-fought issue for many years, the bill is generally favored in Texas and other gas-producing states, but bitterly opposed in gas-consuming Eastern and Northern cities. Opponents were quick to label Porter's approach as "mass bribery" and "selling legislation for campaign contributions." Proponents of the bill groaned. They contended that Porter had heaved a huge monkey wrench into plans for passage this session.

Governor Daniel said the incident "should convince all Texans that the Republican leadership in this state has nothing to offer but embarrassment, discord and division."

Why No Jobs

Viewing the soaring unemployment figures, Governor Daniel took more jabs at the GOP.

Loss of jobs reportedly increased more in the past month than at any time since World War II.

As far as Texas is concerned, said the governor, much of the blame can be laid to the Republican administration's ineffectiveness in controlling oil imports. Competition of foreign oil, he asserted, has caused Texas production to slip steadily, bringing loss of jobs and revenue to the state. National farm policies also were criticized by the governor.

Texas Employment Commission says its January unemployment compensation payments hit $537,800, an increase of almost 70 per cent from last September.

More Taxes?

Governor Daniel has slightly and cautiously amended his determinedly cheerful stand about possible need for new state taxes.

He still doesn't agree with Comptroller Robert S. Calvert's chilly predictions. These are for a $12,000,000 deficit by the end of this biennium (in 1959) and need for the next Legislature to scratch up $100,000,000 in new revenue.

Governor Daniel said he felt the state would just about break even by 1959. But he conceded that needs of a growing state might call for more money by then. He still favors a gas gathering tax, which he proposed last year, but emphasized he isn't recommending that or any other new tax for the time being.

Let's Face It

It's a recession, all right, but a minor one.

This is the answer Dr. John R. Stockton, one of the state's top business analysts, is giving many groups these days. Dr. Stockton is director of the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

Ebbing of prosperity and fear of another Depression have put the spotlight on BBR's studies. Dr. Stockton minces no words about there being a recession, but contends that the cures for this one are in plain sight. He cites increased federal spending and easier credit regulations.

A "minor" recession, says the BBR director, usually lasts about six to eight months.

Rate Order Delayed

State Board of Insurance is restudying an order that would cut in half the rate for insurance on people who get small loans.

Order brought a storm of protest from credit insurers who said the regulation would put them out of business. After a hearing, the Board postponed effective date of the order from March 1 to April 1.

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson has said he would head a drive to crack down on "loan sharks" if the Insurance Board would tighten up credit insurance regulations.

US Trust Payment Foreseen

Partial repayment to investors in the bankrupt US Trust and Guaranty Co. may be possible with Supreme Court rules that all creditors must share alike in the distribution. Payment has been held up by a suit in which holders of "trust certificates" sought preference.

Depositors can make one last move by asking the court for a re-hearing. But unless the court completely reverses its view, this will be denied, making it possible for the state liquidator to begin paying out some $4,000,000 in recovered funds.

Anti-Gift Law Topples

The Attorney General has declared invalid a section of a new law prohibiting insurance company officials from making gifts to State Insurance Department employes.

His reason: the bill's caption or title did not mention the subject. Texas' constitution requires that a bill's caption must state specifically what is in the bill. In this case, the caption did mention that Insurance Department employes could not accept gifts from industry people. But it did not say that industry people could not give them.

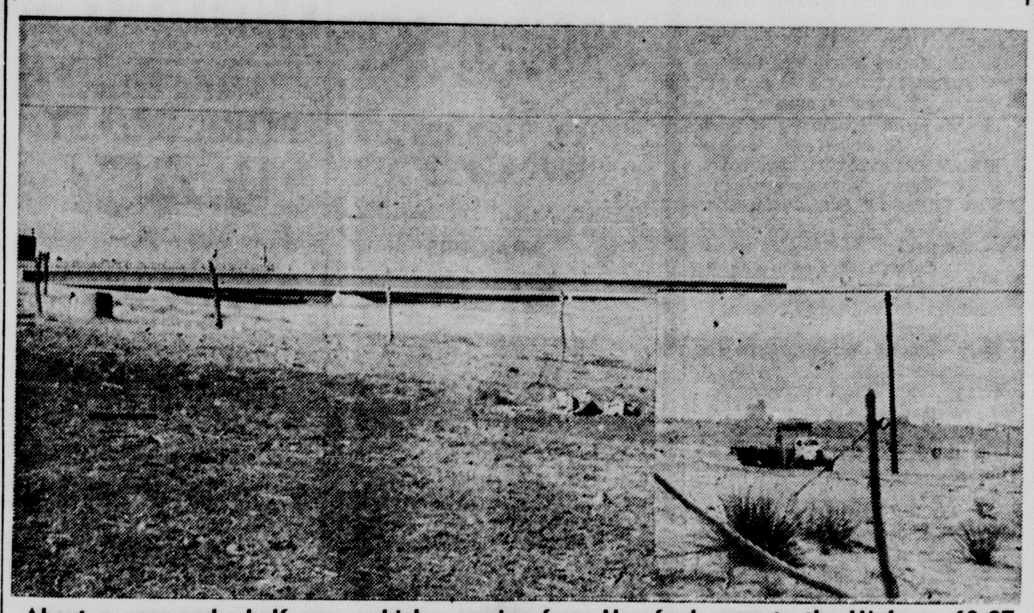
Each year a number of newly-passed laws are thrown out by the attorney general, or by courts, as being improperly written. Governor Daniel has suggested a bill-drafting division in the attorney general's department to help legislators avoid such errors.

Short Snorts

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson has announced the annual conference on law enforcement to be held March 9-11 in Austin. Meeting of the District and County Attorneys Association of Texas has been set to coincide with the conference.

Prices paid for Texas farm products were relatively steady during the past month, reports the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture.

The New and the Old



About a year-and-a-half ago, vehicles coming from Hereford came to the Highway 60-87 intersection just north of Canyon and stopped until the north-south highway was clear—just as the truck in the inset picture. Now, the west-to-north bound traffic zooms over a curving bridge and doesn't really need to slow down.

Mrs. Devin, Mrs. Hines 'Mother' 32 Kindergarten Age Youngsters

Some mothers have trouble with just one of two children, but Mrs. T. L. Devin and Mrs. K. E. Hines "mother" 32 boys and girls every week day.

Mrs. Hines and Mrs. Devin operate a kindergarten every school day morning in the nursery rooms at the First Methodist Church for 32 pre-school age children. The "live-wires" keep the teachers busy but Mrs. Devin and Mrs. Hines have no more trouble than they would with their own children. In fact, Mike Hines chaperones his mother to the kindergarten.

The kindergarten is not designed to ready children for the second grade but to teach them social adjustment — getting along with others and obeying instructions.

When the boys and girls come each morning, they are given a free period to take part in any activity that they want. Some color or put together puzzles and others play house or ABC Lotto. One morning a little boy came in enthusiastically telling of a trip to a zoo. He told the teachers he had seen monkeys in trees and bears and elephants and black kitties with white stripes called "stunks."

Following the free period, the children play games and sing. The songs are familiar ones about engines, nature and Indians, with suitable actions fitted to the words.

Refreshments are served to the children each morning about midway through the session. Recently, when the group visited the first grade at Canyon Elementary School, the children were to bring a nickel to buy a bottle of milk for their refreshment period. The day before the trip, one of the teachers was reminding the class to bring the money when one child soberly declared, "I don't know whether I can bring a nickel or not. Mother and Dad are flat broke."

Coloring and other activities capture the children's interest in a period of group activities. The youngsters are learning the alphabet and their numbers through 20 by coloring mimeographed booklets, counting the number of objects in the picture and writing the number.

This is not taught the children so that they will be prepared for the second grade next year, but so that they may adjust to the first grade easier. Teachers of the Canyon first grades are consulted about the teaching methods so that the boys and girls will not become bored in the first grade when they meet the same material.

The lads and lassies also form reading circles and look at the colorful pictures in books while the teacher reads the story. The children then discuss the pictures and relate them to the story.

In their group activities, the youngsters sit at children-sized tables, designated by colors so the teachers may specify groups easily. When the boys and girls misbehave, the cutout of a child, which represents the individual, is no longer allowed to hold a good citizenship flag. The children are preparing a citizenship train which will take the place of the paper dolls and the flags.

The youngsters will be given diplomas April 3 in a graduation ceremony before their friends and parents. Each child will wear a cap and gown.

ANOTHER PROVERB SHOWN UP

Mother (sagely) — You can't eat your cake and have it too, you know.

Small Daughter — Well, mother, if I want cake just to look at there's plenty in the baker's window."

A DELICATE HINT

A gentleman visited the house of an old friend, where the butler, an Irishman, paid him every attention and finally saw him into his motor.

The gentleman, who was miserly, did not tip him. As a delicate reminder, the butler said:

"Faith, sorr, if you lose your purse on the way home, remember you didn't pull it out here."

A PLANTER

"So your father is a southern planter?"

"Yes," he is an undertaker in Memphis."

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Mayes, Sammie, Vickie and Randy, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Bean and Linda Kay visited relatives in Quitaque last weekend.

Sheila and Tim Payne of Amarillo visited this week with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Mahler.

Mrs. Donnie Martin and Derrell spent last weekend in Odessa at a family reunion.

J. O. Parker is having a well drilled on the land he purchased from John Patterson.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Franklin were business callers in Canyon Friday evening.

Mrs. Bessie Lane visited with her sister, Mrs. Mary Jenkins, in Canyon Thursday.

Joyce Lane and daughter, Joy, were Amarillo business callers on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Rowan of Springlake and his sisters, Mrs. Annie Evans, of Tulia, and Mrs. Ida Dowd of Canyon were visiting old friends in the Wayside community Friday afternoon.

It's consoling to know that if you wander away, or develop amnesia, your loved ones can't truthfully describe you.

A woman who has worked with a missing persons bureau says they invariably describe you the way they want you to look. Or, maybe they're spent years glossing over a glaring physical fault — such as crossed eyes, a slight limp, stooped shoulders — so they neglect to mention this important clue.

We talked about this with a young wife who has been away from home for over a week. She says you remember the absent person by the traits that make you love him, rather than the way he looks. His smile, the understanding glance, a small mannerism — something that is very hard to see, but which represents the warmth of his personality — is the thing you try to describe. While this must be a great inconvenience for those who seek missing persons, it may also be one of the reasons why many loved ones don't leave home.

If Mrs. X could report that her vanished husband "walks like a chimpanzee, has a gray lock hanging over his right eye most of the time, and rarely smiles," she wouldn't find life with this honest, dependable fellow nearly as pleasant as she now does. Or if Mr. Z could describe his stately, well-groomed wife as "a sort of clothes horse, with a deadpan expression, who walks as if she has swallowed a broomstick," we might wonder why in the world he wanted to find her anyhow.

So let's be thankful for "psychology and pride" that help families stick together. After all, most everyone who gets reported to a missing persons bureau wanted to get lost, so what if the clues furnished by relatives and friends aren't too helpful?

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Graham spent two weeks recently with their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Osborne, in Houston.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

"To grow bluegills big, raise your pond's fertility quickly, as soon as winter cold begins to wane," say biologists of the Soil Conservation Service. This is a most significant fact that fish culturists have learned by experience in recent years.

Pond fertilization was first begun in America about 1938. For a time technicians recommended delay in applying fertilizer "until the spring rains are over." Farmers waited until May or June. Hundreds were disappointed because the bluegills quit growing after the second year. Now it has been shown that even April fertilization is too late to obtain satisfactory bluegill growth.

Bluegills begin to spawn in May or June. Within two or three weeks after the eggs hatch, the thousands of little bluegills are eating all the spare food. When that happens their parents cannot get food enough to grow even with full water fertility, yet they continue to spawn all summer and until the first chilly nights in the fall—usually October. During this summer period the production of bass is high. They are growing rapidly on the thousands of little bluegills, which are the chief bass food.

When bluegills stop spawning in the fall, the bass continue their heavy consumption of bluegills fingerlings. As the bass reduce the number of fingerling bluegills, the adult bluegills begin to grow—slowly at first, then more rapidly. Growth is slow again during the colder days of winter, as fish feed very little in cold temperatures.

Then when the water begins to warm a little, bluegills are ready to grow larger; but only if the water is fertile enough to grow a lot of microscopic creatures that are an essential part of the food cycle.

A pond owner who waits until late spring to renew his pond's fertility cannot expect big bluegills The season when they grow most rapidly is only 100 to 120 days, usually February to June. If runoff water from spring rains is too much for early spring fertilization, the watershed is too big and in some instances the owner can divert the water around the pond.

In most cases, however, the loss of fertile water from the pond is not as serious as was once thought. A fish-pond owner in any case may have to lose a little fertilized water to get his bluegills to grow to a profitable size.

"To get the first 3 to 5 applications in quickly, fertilize every week or 10 days as you begin the year's program of water culture," are the SCS instructions. "Fertilize until a white object cannot be seen 12 to 14 inches deep."

Another tip for good fish-pond management—don't just fish bass. There is a lot of fun and good eating in the fat bluegills in a pond and it keeps the pond in good condition to fish for them. Many ponds that get over-populated with bluegills have not been fertilized properly and have never had enough bluegills caught. Bass fishing alone in a pond is not good water management.

Scholarships by the Thousands Ready For Students Who Have Good Records

With the cost of attending college rising every year—and the national average running to near $1500—parents should investigate the possibilities of helping their children obtain one of the thousands of scholarships available each year.

Probably no actual count of the number of scholarships has ever been made, but estimates run as high as 250,000, several of which might fit the needs of almost any student.

Most of the scholarships require just what the name implies—scholarship on the part of the student. 'Any youngster who wants to obtain a scholarship should begin working toward it while he is a freshman in high school," Principal J. E. Miller of Canyon High School says.

The principal said almost all scholarship fund trustees investigate the complete high school records of applicants before awarding the grants. "Those who have the best records stand the best chance of winning," he said.

There are a lot of oddities to be found in listings of scholarship funds. For instance, there's one for a home economics graduate student interested in sheep and goats. There's another that goes to good golf caddies with high grades.

Atlantic Ice and Coal Company gives scholarships on the basis of need of qualified students who live where a company plant or branch is located. There's a scholarship in Boston for newsboys who live in Boston, and a similar one in California. The Amarillo newspapers give scholarships to their newsboys.

Another scholarship is available to an Iowan who lives near the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad. And there's even one which goes to any young man named Murphy "who deserves encouragement."

Those odd scholarships account for only a small portion of those available each year, however. Other funds make up the bulk.

Probably the largest number of scholarships given each year are administered by the National Merit Scholarships Corporation, an organization set up to award scholarships donated by more than 60 American business corporations and foundations.

This year, NMSC awarded more than $5 million in scholarships, both new and continuing. For next year, the corporation plans to award the same amount of money, with about 850 new scholarships available.

NMSC awards four-year scholarships, and the amount for each is based on financial need. The winners may study in just about any field they desire. Winners are determined through a series of tests—this year nearly 260,000 high school seniors and juniors took the first test. About the upper 10 per cent is allowed to take the second, and winners are picked from that group.

The George Westinghouse Foundation gives 10 scholarships each year at Carnegie Tech which pay $3650 in a four-year period if the winners continue their scholastic showing.

Union Carbide gives four-year scholarships paying tuition and allowances for books and fees at 95 colleges and universities. The institutions administer the scholarships, and they are given on the basis of talent and ability and financial need.

Alfred P. Sloan National Scholarship gives 125 scholarships through 32 colleges, and they range from $200 to $2000 according to need.

General Motors Scholarship Program gives 300 four-year scholarships at 178 colleges and universities which range from $200 to $2000 according to need. Winners are expected to work during the summer months to help themselves with their schooling, and are urged to take part-time work during the school year if possible. They are awarded by the colleges.

General Motors National Plan gives 100 four-year scholarships through examinations given directly by the foundation. The scholarships are good for any accredited college or university in the United States, and the rest of the qualifications are the same as for the GM Scholarship Program.

The National Honor Society gives 43 scholarships worth from $500 to $2000 upon qualification through Scholarship Qualifying Tests, given by the College Entrance Board.

Procter and Gamble awards 60 four-year scholarships through 47 colleges and universities. They are for full tuition, books, fees and supplies, and allows an additional $600 to be used by the college in furthering education.

Other scholarships are not so rewarding. The Texas Education Agency gives one scholarship each year to the highest ranking graduate in each high school in Texas. The scholarship is good for one year's tuition at any state school.

Each college and university has an additional number of scholarships which are administered by the institution—many were given by alumni or by interested individuals. They are usually listed in the catalogue of the college, along with qualifications and methods of applying.

Although no full listing of all available scholarships is known, a three-volume set that can be found in the West Texas State Library would be an invaluable aid to a person interested in obtaining financial aid in college.

The volumes, entitled "Scholarships, Fellowships and Loans," were written by S. Norman Feingold. They list 910 agencies which give scholarships, and tells the requirements for them.

An index in the books list scholships by area of study, and run from Aeronautical Engineering to Zoology—through Arthritis, Chinese Painting, Fauna and Jewel Engraving.

Many different requirements can be found in the descriptions of the various scholarships, but one is present in almost all of them. The requirement is for proven ability and studiousness.
